

Elise Woloshin was raised in Cambridge, Wisconsin where she took her first ballet class at Studio 3-D under the direction of Debbie Otteson-Griggas in 2003. By 2005 Elise auditioned for Madison Ballet's production of The Nutcracker where she would fall in love with the artform even more.

By 2008, Elise was a student at the School of Madison Ballet under the direction of W. Earle Smith. She graduated from the school program and became a trainee for Madison Ballet by 2017. During her training, Elise had the pleasure of training at many knowledgeable programs such as, Central Pennsylvania Youth Ballet, Pittsburgh Ballet Theater, Ballet Chicago, and Alonzo King Lines Ballet in San Francisco.

Elise has had the pleasure of teaching at Tutu School Sun Prairie under Alyssa Gunsolous and at Tutu School Chicago under Genevieve Custer. Elise is excited about continuing her teaching journey and sharing her love of ballet here at Variations Dance Studio in Madison, WI.
